

Dr. Susan Swartwout Presents

“How to Plan Your First Published Book”

Wednesday, October 22, 2008 at 12:00 Noon
in Kent Library's Sadie's Place

Dr. Susan Swartwout, Publisher for Southeast's University Press, will serve as moderator for a panel of authors who have had their books published with a university press or a commercial press. The panel will discuss their first-book experience and what they've learned since then about navigating the wild waters of writing books, getting published, and negotiating a contract. A Question & Answer period will follow.

The presentation is open to all and refreshments will be served.

Kent Library Hosts: Lisa Speer, Pat Willingham, Cindy Raines and Carl Pracht.

Southeast Missouri State University Press, founded in 2001, serves both as a first-rate publisher in our under-published region and as a working laboratory for students interested in learning the art and skills of literary publishing, dependent-press publishing, and editing.
